If there is a little hole or tear in our clothes, we should get it stitched in time. If we fail to do so, nine or more stitches will be necessary. What the proverb means is that a small piece of work done now may save a lot of work later. We should act with prudence. Let us examine the case of a farmer. A good farmer does everything in time. He irrigates the land, applies nice fertilizers and pesticides. He knows any delay will reduce the yield. Shakespeare says, 'Delays have dangerous ends.' There are many students who put off studying their subjects. On the eve of examinations they burn the midnight oil. Very often they do not get time to finish their subjects. Someone has rightly said, 'Putting off easy things makes it hard, and putting off hard ones makes it impossible.'

1) We should _____ the cloth when there is a hole in it.
