Read the following passage carefully and choose the correct answer for the questions that follows from 16 to 25 basing you answer on the given passage :-

Moye and I embarked in his dugout, paddled to the longhouse and climbed the ladder from the water's edge upto the front platform. Peering timidly around corners at the extreme end of the house, a handful of Dyaks reappeared. Our escort shouted at them to come and meet us - we were only Tuans like the Resident, come in a be-loom to visit them. Little by litte, like wild forest animals, the Dyaks began to gather close, shyly at first, but with increasing courage and increasing numbers, until presently three hundred brown bodies were swarming towards us from the jungle, from the branches, from the hillside above. It finally become a race to reach us-and the naked little children, agile as sqnrrels, got there first.

We looked about curiously at our new friends. They were all full-blooded Dyaks-surprisingly small, but surprisingly beautiful. The men were dressed uniformly in red lion-cloths and narrow aprons, heavy anklets and wristles of twisted grass. The women were dressed as simply-bare from the waist up, with their hips wrapped in a single cotton cloth. A few of them wore high corsets made of rattan hoops wrapped in a single cotton wire, fitting snugly around their waists.

Read the following passage carefully and choose the correct answers for the questions from 26 to 30 based on the passage.

Health, therefore is a the root of prosperity and success. A man may be intelligent, powerful and genius. But all these are useless unless he has a good health. People with high ambitions will see all their hopes destroyed if they are not fortunate to have good health for how can one exercise his powers towards the realization of his hopes, if he is constantly in ill health. All people in this world are required, more or less, to work. If this be nature's plan, it should be the duty of all to see that this law is not violated. To make this possible it is necessary that we should possess a round health so that we may have the power to work. If one enjoys good health, it is certain that he will be generally cheerful and also enjoys a sound mind and a sound mind is not less important than a sound body. It is combination of these two that makes a man happy and cheerful and confers upon him the energy required for work.
